Kevin Lehse has been a true friend to snowmobile enthusiasts for many years and has always been someone who unselfishly has done everything in his power to help others. Kevin can now use our help as he fights a battle with Acute Myeloid Leukemia. At 51 years of age, this unfortunately is Kevin's second struggle with cancer. In 1993 he fought a year-long battle with Hodgkin's Lymphoma and won that fight. In August 2016, Kevin was admitted to the hospital suffering from severe pneumonia, only to discover he was in the later stages of a rare form of leukemia that has only a 25% chance of survival. After a difficult five week battle fighting cancer for a second time, Kevin was released in September with his AML Leukemia in remission. Since September, Kevin has undergone three of his four separate week-long hospital visits for consolidation chemo-therapy to keep his disease under control.

Kevin has a love for old snowmobiles, old tractors, and old cars, but more importantly he is an amazing historian willing to share his vast knowledge with anyone. He has been a volunteer, member, board member, and director of organizations such as the Antique Snowmobile Club of America and the Midwest Vintage Snowmobile Show (Waconia Ride-In). As a gifted artist, Kevin has drawn a majority of the Waconia Ride-In prints and clothing designs.

Please help make a difference to help Kevin with his rising medical costs and give back to a friend who has given so much of himself to help others. Thank you for supporting our Benefit.
